I've done a web search and did not see this answered before. but I'll try here. Is it possible to have a NAS in addition to running vm's on that same server. For example: If I have 2 disks in my server and I allocate one for vm's and then two disks for iSCSI. Can I then also install a NAS in the server as well? If that makes sense? Or would that make it nearly impossible to perform that transaction
